Overview

Find the latest cable tray price list for 2025. Compare B2B and B2C pricing, materials, and supplier options.

Key Takeaways

The cost of busbar cable trays varies widely depending on material, size, order volume, and installation complexity, typically ranging from tens to hundreds of dollars per meter.

Factors Affecting Cost

- Material Type: Copper busbars are more expensive than aluminum due to higher conductivity and material cost, while cable trays can be made from steel, aluminum, or fiberglass, affecting the price .
- Size and Current Rating: Larger busbars or trays designed for higher amperage require more conductive material, increasing cost .
- Order Volume: Bulk orders reduce the cost per unit due to economies of scale, while small or custom orders are more expensive .
- Lead Time: Urgent or expedited orders may incur additional charges .

- Installation Complexity: Cable trays may require cutting, bending, and additional support systems, which increases labor costs. Busbars, being modular, can reduce labor costs in complex layouts but have higher initial material costs .

Typical Pricing

- Cable Trays: Standard 100mm trays can cost roughly $20–$50 per meter for materials alone, with labor adding extra depending on installation difficulty .
- Busbars: Custom busbars can range from $50 to several hundred dollars per meter, depending on material (copper vs aluminum), size, and amperage rating .

Long-Term Considerations

- Flexibility and Expansion: Busbars allow easier modifications and expansions, potentially reducing future labor costs .
- Maintenance: Cable trays are simpler but less flexible for adding new circuits, which may increase long-term labor costs .

Recommendation

For an accurate quote, manufacturers like Electris, MP Husky, and EAE Electric provide custom pricing based on your project specifications, including material, length, and amperage requirements . It is advisable to request a detailed proposal to account for both material and installation costs.
