Key Takeaways

Temporary electrical distribution boxes in Singapore typically cost between SGD 200 to SGD 1,500 per unit, depending on capacity, IP rating, and rental or purchase options.

Temporary electrical distribution boxes, also known as DB boxes or site distribution boards, are essential for safely distributing power across construction sites. They protect circuits using miniature circuit breakers (MCBs) and residual current devices (RCCBs/ELCBs) and are designed for mobility, durability, and weather resistance. These boxes are often waterproof, dustproof, and impact-resistant, making them suitable for outdoor construction environments.

Pricing Factors

- Capacity and Power Rating
- Boxes are available in various capacities, typically 20 kVA to 40 kVA for larger sites
- Higher capacity units or those with multiple circuits generally cost more.

- Rental vs Purchase
- Rental: Companies like Aggreko offer temporary power distribution solutions on a rental basis, which can be cost-effective for short-term projects .
- Purchase: Suppliers like DDY Group and Wieland provide units for purchase, with prices influenced by IP rating, connector type, and customization .
- IP Protection and Environmental Resistance
- Units with IP54 to IP69 ratings protect against water and dust ingress, with higher ratings increasing cost .
- Outdoor-ready, mobile, and waterproof boxes are more expensive than indoor-only units.
- Mobility and Setup Features
- Portable and modular designs allow easy transport and quick setup, which can add to the price .
- Prefabricated components and pluggable connectors (e.g., Wieland's gesis®/RST® systems) enhance flexibility but may increase cost .

Typical Price Range

- Small, indoor or low-capacity units: SGD 200 – 500 per unit
- Medium-capacity, outdoor-ready units: SGD 500 – 1,000 per unit
- High-capacity, fully waterproof and modular units: SGD 1,000 – 1,500 per unit For accurate pricing, it is recommended to contact suppliers directly, as costs vary based on project duration, customization, and delivery requirements. Suppliers in Singapore include Aggreko, Seng Heng Tentage Rentals, Koh Khang Hin Trading, DDY Group, and Wieland Electric .

Recommendation

- For short-term projects, consider rental options to reduce upfront costs.
- For long-term or multiple-site projects, purchasing a durable, waterproof, and modular distribution box may be more cost-effective.
- Always ensure the unit meets local safety standards and IP protection requirements for construction sites.
